The Arlington Addition.

A RARE OPPORTUNITY FOR HANDSOME HOMES AND GOOD INVESTMENTS.

The gentlemen composing the Arlington Company have done a handsome thing for the city. The large vacant space on the north of Churchville Avenue and adjoining on the west the property of Captain Thos. D. Ranson, has been terraced on the avenue and wide streets opened and twenty-four handsome residence lots now have their corners and lines distinctly defined. The plat of the property giving the width and boundaries of streets, alleys, and lots is a complete drawing, and a visit to the place will insure pleasant reflections whether or not a purchase is made. It is the beginning of the dawn which is to throw benignant rays over Staunton in the new prospects for growing and continued progress. The company present the matter to the public in an attractive advertisement setting forth the property in perfect shapes from the open field as it was when they took the premises in hand. Abundant time is given to view the place, and to do so, the visitor being without a home of his own will not long remain so. The elevation is the very best, and the approach easy and inviting. It will be a gala day that second of May, for then we commence the expansion and the new growth of our fair city of the Valley.
